4 Read the following text and answer the questions :

Flying has changed a lot in the modern world. There are more airlines and more routes than ever before, making it easier for people to travel for holidays or work. In many countries, it is now cheaper and faster to travel by plane than by car or train. This has allowed families to visit each other more often and has opened up new travel opportunities for people who couldn't afford it in the past. However, this easy way comes at a cost to our environment. Airplanes burn fuel, which creates a lot of pollution. When more people fly, the problem gets worse. Scientists are trying to find solutions, like designing planes that use less fuel or can use renewable energy. Some people suggest that the small number of people who fly many times each year should pay more. This extra money could then be used to fund research into cleaner ways to fly.

4 Read the following text and answer the questions :

Sleep is one of the most important parts of a healthy lifestyle, but many people do not get enough of it. Before the invention of electric light, people had typically gone to bed soon after sunset and woken up with the sun. Today, we are used to staying up late, often looking at screens on phones, tablets, or televisions. Scientists say that the blue light from these screens can make it harder for our brains to switch off and fall asleep. If you looked at your phone just before bed, you would probably find it more difficult to get to sleep. A lack of sleep can lead to poor concentration, bad moods, and even health problems in the long term. To improve your sleep, try to establish a regular routine, avoid screens for an hour before bed, and make sure your bedroom is dark and quiet.

a. Choose the correct answer from a , b , c or d :

Sample Test 1

We all need to take care of our health to feel happy and strong. When we have a lot of schoolwork, or we are studying for exams, it can sometimes cause a lot of stress. If at times you feel anxious or upset, it's good to breathe slowly and count to ten, until you feel calmer. Don't forget to take regular breaks when you're studying. Taking regular breaks stops you getting tired, and helps you think clearly. Going to bed early and getting enough rest is necessary, too.

France is part of the continent of Europe. France has borders with many countries, including Spain, Italy, and Germany. The population of France is 67 million people.

The built environment in the capital, Paris, is a mixture of old and new buildings.

When you travel to the French countryside, you can see different types of landscapes– green fields, forests, rivers, mountains, and beaches. The coast in the south of France is famous for its warm water and beaches. The west of France is next to the North Atlantic Ocean, but the water there can be dangerous to swim in. France has 13 regions, and they are all quite different.

Japan is a small country with a big population. In 1987, engineers built an island five kilometers from the coast of Japan. Then they built Kansai Airport on the island. The island had to be very big to make the airport safe. Passengers drive, take a train across a bridge to get to the airport, or they can take a ferry. However, the sea level is getting higher because of climate change. This means that by 2050, the island and the airport might be under water !

Sample Test 9

My name is Salma and I'm in grade 8. I enjoy coming to school because all our teachers are enthusiastic and friendly. The school building is very big and our classrooms are bright and modern. We have nice outdoor spaces where students can eat lunch. Speaking of lunch, the cafeteria is excellent. I had a delicious bowl of pasta and vegetables in the cafeteria yesterday !

Sample Test 10

Sam wakes up at 6 a.m. He helps his dad with some chores outside. His first class is at 8 o'clock. He logs onto his computer and waits for his teacher and classmates to come online. Today's class is a math lesson about fractions. Sam has seven half-hour classes every week but must study for five hours every day, between Monday and Friday. His mom helps him and makes sure he studies enough. Once a year, Sam and his classmates all go to a "school camp" for one week.
